TRANSPORTATION INFORMATION

Getting Around

With bicycle-friendly streets, ample sidewalks, and one of the safest, cleanest and most efficient public transportation systems in the country, Washington, DC is an easy city to navigate once you understand the basics. Here are a few tips to get you started:

- The District of Columbia is 67 square miles and divided into 4 quadrants: Northwest, Southwest, Northeast and Southeast. The U.S. Capitol building marks the center where the quadrants meet. Always check the quadrant indicator (NW, SW, NE, SE) of a local address before setting out.
- Numbered streets run north-south.
- Letters streets run east-west (there are no J, X, Y or Z streets), alphabetically becoming two syllable names (Adams, Belmont), then three syllable names (Allison, Buchanan) as you travel out farther from the center.
- Avenue names for U.S. states run diagonally, often meeting at traffic circles and squares.

Taxis

Washington, DC cabs operate on a zone system instead of using meters. By law, basic rates must be posted in every cab. The base fare for one zone is $5.50, there is a $1.50 charge for each additional passenger in the party and a $1 surcharge during morning (7am - 9:30am) and evening (4pm - 6:30pm) rush hours. There is a gas surcharge at $1.50 per tax ride. There is a radio dispatch service charge of $2.00.

A ride for one passenger from Reagan National Airport to downtown is about $12 - $15. Maryland and Virginia cabs have metered fares and may transport you in and out of the District, but not between points within the District.
